

Anniversary continued...

Story continued from Page 1

community.

The storm started on the west side of town, first taking the roof off the Paoli Police and Fire Department, and also damaging Huck's and Down Home Primitives.

The winds then hit the square significantly damaging the roof of Reflections and leaving them with other damage. Above Reflections there are apartments and since the shop suffered roof damages the people living in those apartments will have to move into temporary houses until homes can be replaced.

Just up from Reflections, Maggie's shop had been closed since last year's fire due to damage to inventory and a crack in the window was finished off by the high winds.

The storm continued on to remove three chimneys from the Courthouse and then removed a portion of the roof from Liberty Furniture.

The Lost River Market and Deli suffered roof damage as well, losing a portion of the roof.

The estimated cost for the repair is over a million dollars. The area of town that was affected the worst is the square.

With the building housing the police station damaged, help was called in from West Baden, Orleans, French Lick, Indiana State Police and Indiana Conservation.

Officers say that no loitering took place after the storm, but some people were caught trying to steal metal. Since the Police and Fire Station was damaged, there will be a temporary mobile station put in the parking lot until things get fixed.

And then the lights were out

Power outages started around 7:45 p.m. Monday night right when the storm hit strong. Town power came back on around midnight but the whole town was not on until two in the morning.

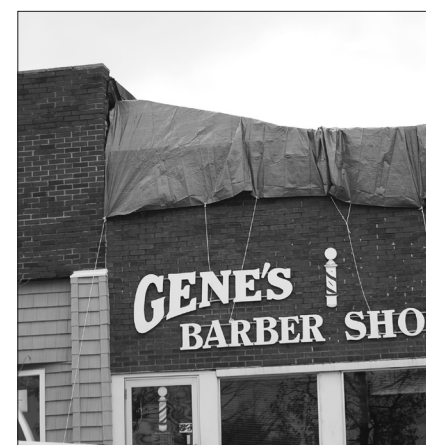

Even at 2 a.m. not all houses had power and after that, individual scattered outages started to receive power again. The winds mostly caused the outages along with tree limbs.

Three linemen were on the job trying to get the power on, and other people from the community also stepped in to help.

A lineman suggested that residents should try turning the breaker off when an outage happens. This can help the linemen get the power on faster. By turning on and off the breaker this helps pick up the load so that the lines can kick back on.

Residents will now be waiting for the damage to be repaired from the storm.

Story by Shelby Waynick & Tasha Tedrow

Top: A portion of the roof was blown off the Liberty Furniture building.
Left: A tree fell and damaged a house on Horton Hill. Above Right: Gene's Barber Shop suffered roof damage.
Left: Minor flooding swelled Lick Creek and wind took down a large tree.

For more images of the storm damage, please check out our coverage on our site:
www.thepaolite.wordpress.com

Photos by Breanna Daugherty

Holiday help in the palm of your hand

Apps alleviate the stress of the holidays for iPhone, iPod users

The holidays are approaching, like it or not. Good or bad, it would not hurt to save a little this holiday season and have some “bizarre” fun.

Whether you are looking for new restaurants or just looking forward to Black Friday these people-friendly apps for smart phones are on the must have list for this season.

Check it:

1. Bizarre Holidays ($0.99) is an app that presents you with one wacky holiday each day. You will find silly holidays like “Blame Someone Else Day” and “Dance Like a Chicken Day”. Use it to have a little fun or plan parties for friends and family. It is updated yearly.

2. Some families are in favor of hitting up restaurants for the holidays. If you and your family cannot decide where to eat, the Urbanspoon (Free) app can help. It picks a restaurant for you. Just shake your iPhone and watch the wheels land where your next meal will be. Make sure to call first, these places might not be open during major holidays.

3. Need information on flights? Look no further, FlightTrack Pro ($9.99) gives real-time updates for flights from around the world, live weather radar updates, route maps and other info, without subscription fees. Delays and cancellations arrive via push alerts; itineraries sync with TripIt; and you get airplane information, like type, speed and altitude, at your fingertips. And, if you are really bored, you can shake to track random flights. Now there is a way to kill time.

4. It is coming, and there is nothing you can do to stop it. The crazy-eyed shoppers at 5 a.m., rampaging through department store aisles in search of the best deals. That is right: Black Friday. If you are planning on going, be prepared with a Black Friday iPhone App. BF Deals ($0.99) all the latest prices for the stuff you want will go directly to your phone. Push notifications keep you at the head of the line; a Twitter link allows you to brag about your steals; checklists keep you organized and sane in the chaos; and you can view other users on a map and spot stores in the areas that are less crowded. Bring it on insanity!

5. We do not need more apps that send our credit downhill; we need something that will keep track of what we are spending while also organizing what we are buying. That is why Christmas Gifts List, an app that goes above basic organization and actually tracks how much you are spending per person. Christmas Gifts List is wrongly named since it works for every buyable holiday, but I am sure people will not take offense for $0.99.

6. If you thought #5 was interesting,

Photo by Wes Phelps

check this out; CompareMe Shopping Utility ($1.99) takes frugality to the next level. Its comparison calculator lets you compare products in different sizes and packs, shows the percentage discount and the premium. CompareMe seems geared towards grocery shopping more than holiday shopping, but with the enormous meals you will be cooking, it could come in handy when buying in bulk.

Story by Hannah Walker

SOUND BITES

Words heard around PHS...

“I feel like Mrs. Brewster denies a lot of the stuff.”
Senior Jerica Goodpaster said about how English teacher Jaye Brewster denies almost every Sound Bite we bring to her.

“Okay, we’re going to trust the girl with a speech impediment?”

English teacher Jaye Brewster said about staff member Tasha Tedrow and her pronunciation of R’s.

“He was writin’ and rollin’.”

Science teacher Scott Page said talking about his college professor.

“You can’t teach physics without elephants.”

Physics teacher Philip Andry said to his physics class when randomly drawing an elephant on the board in the middle of a problem.

“Can Arnold Schwarzenegger in all of his swagger saying, ‘I want to be president, baby’ be president?”

No, he can’t.”

Government teacher Scott Gudorf in his “Arnold Schwarzenegger” voice. (We heard it – not a great impersonation. Please ask him to do it.)

“I’m gonna kill two chickens with one egg.”

Senior Breck Eubank said, meaning to say “two birds with one stone”.

IN THE NEWS:

Justin Timberlake went to a Marine ball with a 23-year-old Marine who invited him to go with her from Afghanistan via Youtube. He said YES!!!

What do you think about Justin Timberlake going to a Marine ball with a 23-year-old Marine who invited him on Youtube?

What celebrity would you want to go to your Prom with you and why?

Trevor Aksom Senior

He likes boys, I don’t like him, but he was probably the best dancer there.

Chris Brown because he dances really well.

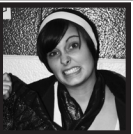

Brandon Crowder Guidance Counselor

I think it is good anytime people of public interest support the military.

Ellen DeGeneres, because she would be a ton of fun to hang out with.

Lacey Kirkman Senior

Creepy on her part but nice for him to do that.

Channing Tatum or Tyra Banks because they are gorgeous.

By Sean Fulton

Compiled by Tasha Tedrow